

Preface

This special issue of the "Journal of Biomimetics, Biomaterials and Biomedical Engineering" highlights actual topics in biomedical engineering and health informatics. The themes were chosen because of the current revolutionary growth and development in electronics, communication, methods of signal and image processing, and biomedicine in general.

This volume will be attractive for many researchers in biomedical engineering and become a beneficial source in future research.

Associate Professor Dr. Triwiyanto

Guest Editor