

Preface

In this edition, the reader can get acquainted with the research results of properties for structural and functional materials, and materials and technologies in construction.

Results of a study of properties of polymers, nanocomposites, structural composites, bio- and functional ceramics, materials and technologies for electronic industry, soil cement properties and biofiller for hot-mix asphalt paving and other findings are given.

This issue will be useful to specialists in materials science, materials processing technologies and construction.