

FAQ eBook Subscriptions

Do you provide the list of eBooks available on www.scientific.net?	The up-to-date list of all the books published on the website can be generated in a .xsl file and downloaded through the link AllTitles.csv on the Downloads page. The list is generated on the fly.
What does the eBook format provides for?	The content is available online in the eBook format with the possibility to export each separate paper of the book to PDF.
Why should an institution provide the list of Campuses and the number of FTE Researches to take out a subscription?	We require this information to calculate the subscription price. Extra charges should be paid in case there are more than 2 campuses, or more than 15'000 users.
What are the terms and conditions of the trial period?	To subscribe for the 1-3 month trial access Libraries are required to provide their URL, full address, contact name, e-mail, IP addresses. The trial period includes the access to the usage statistics.
Do subscribers sign a license agreement? How one can get acquainted with the Terms and Conditions?	We have a license agreement for eBook subscribers. It can be sent by email upon request.
What are the terms of subscription for the eBooks?	Refer to eBooksAgreement.pdf for details.
How one can access the Usage Statistics?	The usage statistics is available for downloading after logging in a personal account.
What are the terms and conditions of the trial period?	To subscribe for the 1-3 month trial access Libraries are required to provide their URL, full address, contact name, e-mail, IP addresses. The trial period includes the access to the usage statistics.
Do you provide the COUNTER Compliant statistics, BR1 or BR2?	Yes, our usage statistics is COUNTER Compliant, BR1.

Do you use any content preservation services?	All the content published by TTP is archived with Portico . The archiving with CLOCKSS will be arranged soon.
Do you provide MARC records?	We provide MarcRecords in MARC21 format, XML Files, MetaData, ONIX, ToC, Cover.
How often are MARC records updated?	MARC records are updated twice per month.
Do you support the Shibboleth authentication system?	Unfortunately, we do not support Shibboleth system.
Do you permit customers to get an off-campus access, remote access, and remote access from outpost centers or satellite campuses?	The remote access and off-campus access are allowed for customers, if not misused.
Do you use DRM (Digital Rights Management)?	All our data is DRM free.
Are there any restrictions for simultaneous access?	There are no restrictions for simultaneous access
Is the resource available in a mobile version?	Scientific.Net website is built in responsive design. It can be accessed via mobile devices.
Do you provide licensees with perpetual access rights to all content paid for during the term of the eBook subscription? Will the licensee have archiving rights?	Licensees receive the right of perpetual access via www.scientific.net . We also entitle Licensees to archive the content.
Are users allowed to share the content with third parties?	Users are not allowed to share the content for any purpose.

How can one get a remote access?	Customers can get the remote access through their user name and password.
Is the resource included in link resolver knowledgebase? Is the resource indexed by discovery tools?	The resource is included in Ex Libris SFX. All the materials are indexed in Ex Libris Primo Central and EBSCO Discovery Service on article level.
Which materials do Specialized Collections include?	The Specialized Collections include the papers selected from among the materials that were recently published by Trans Tech Publications Inc. They cover the most advanced technological trends in materials science and engineering.
Which materials do Retrospective Collections include?	The Retrospective Collections include featured books on engineering and materials science that were published by Trans Tech Publications Inc. from 1983 to 2004.